To whom it may concern;

I am writing to describe the wonderful experience our school had in working with the Huntington Learning Center in Englewood, NJ, particularly with Viola Feld, its Director. Their professionalism, expertise, understanding, and flexibility made every aspect of our relationship a delight and gave our students an excellent learning experience.

Our particular cooperation with Viola and her team concerned an SAT prep course that we arranged to run in our school. Viola found two excellent teachers for the course, one for Math and one Verbal, but was always ready to teach herself if either could not make it. Viola administered diagnostic and practice tests herself, and even contacted the parents to update them on their children's progress. We worked out a schedule that would allow the students to complete the course in time for the School Day SAT in April, and when various events and days off from school prevented us from meeting a few times, Viola offered makeup sessions to keep the course on track. What most impressed me, however was how the teachers responded to student requests to emphasize certain parts of the material and to adjust their teaching style, and the teachers were flexible and happy to help.

The course was a big success in every way. The students enjoyed the course and improved their scores, the parents felt that the course was money well spent, and the school was pleased to be able to offer this opportunity to them. As a result we are currently working with Viola to schedule a session for September to help the new Juniors understand the new SAT online format, which I expect will lead to another SAT prep course in the Spring.

I enthusiastically recommend Huntington Learning Center in Englewood to any school looking to offer test prep to its students.

Sincerely,
